Economic Talk 2010

Concept

We should talk about issues for which we actually can take action ourselves. Now too many youth events deal with issues for which we cannot do anything. This is our fundamental problem because, without action, discussion cannot be done with responsibility. Participants will never discuss topics with pressure and responsibility if there is no need for action. We always have a “you should do this” situation.

As a core concept of Economic Talk, we include the aspect of action. In order to do that, we would like to talk about topics of the present (2009/2010) and the future (2020) when we may work, have authority and act economically. Accordingly, the motto of Economic Talk is “Create our future”.

Economic Talk – more specifically the idea of Economic Talk for “new normal” – was also stimulated by Thomas Friedman’s book “Hot, Flat, and Crowded”.

This time we establish G4 and Economic Talk by G4, including China, Germany, Japan and the US as the 4 major exporters of goods worldwide.
